Assignment – II

Only a good person can be a good officer. If you are mean and cowardly, if you let down your colleagues and subordinates, if you do not keep your word and are dishonest yourself, you can never be a good officer. It is not enough to be good at work; one must be good a human being. Discipline is a part of character and an officer who has no discipline in his own life cannot be good. How he can enforce discipline in his subordinates even in elementary matters, like punctuality, if he is coming to the office whenever he wishes and goes away whenever he likes. As Dr Radhakrishnan had said, “those who do not learn to obey will never learn to rule”.
